While performing her duties, she and other First Responders were exposed to toxic fumes that caused horrific health problems. Lauren's bravery and heroic recovery continues daily. A list of resources was shared to support those affected by the long-term impact of 9/11.

President's Note

October Greetings fellow Members, Friends and Neighbors.

As the temperature cools and the days fade, how lovely to see Fall colors emerge. And we seem to be having an acorn bumper crop! For the first time in over 20 years, our certified Wye Oak has more acorns than the squirrels can grab. We hope all your oaks are doing that well, too.

We continue to focus and emphasize our place in Baltimore County, and how to protect and enhance our community through the programs and services the County provides. One of the most important connections/resources for community safety and well-being is our local Baltimore County Police, located at the Woodlawn Station Precinct. We are very pleased to have their Community Outreach Team join us.

As always, we are committed to providing a good forum to address the larger community concerns of our members and neighbors; and we can never say it enough: our guiding belief is that we are all part of the same community and the more ways we can all get together, the more voices we have, the better! Staying informed and engaged is one of our greatest strengths.

Please join with us on October 9th!

From the Editor's Desk

I have always harbored a special admiration for bamboo. Patches of green bamboo groves dotted the countryside where I grew up. I loved the crisp bright green color of the bamboo leaves in the Spring and I was always enchanted by the graceful swaying of the bamboo canes in the gentle breeze. Because of its grace, strength and indomitable growing power, bamboo is often featured in Chinese ancient paintings and poems as its character exemplified the great virtues of a noble gentleman in Chinese culture.

Sadly, upon being transplanted in North America, bamboo's firm and indomitable growth characteristics have earned it the notorious label as "Invasive" species. As a fellow transplant myself, I do declare my love of bamboo has not been diminished by its tainted reputation on our shores.

Members of the GPCA Small Watershed Committee (SWCC) organized an invasive bamboo clearing on October 1st. Patrik and I joined the effort on early Sunday morning. We happily (ahem, those who had to carry and load the cumbersome bamboo canes may disagree!) took a truckload of my beloved bamboo canes home. The secret of controlling bamboo growth is to remove the shoots and thin the canes regularly. Bamboo has a wide range of potential uses in our daily lives. Bamboo shoots are edible (not all species, just ask panda bears), bamboo leaves are used in many ways in Asian cuisine. Bamboo canes can be made into cups, holders, fences, garden stakes, and furniture. Bamboo pulp can be processed to make paper and textiles for clothing. I look forward to using these bamboo canes for my climbing cucumber and bean plants in my vegetable garden next year.

A portion of the bamboo canes we cleared out are left at the pull-out area opposite Edrich Saw Mill. Please feel free to take them home and use them before the County pick them up. I hope you will also grow to appreciate bamboo and admire its grace and strength and make good use of its indomitable growth.

Lanternflies - An Alternate View

STOP SQUISHING SPOTTED
LANTERNFLIES

They're not the monsters they were once made out to be, and stepping on them isn't effective. So why are people still unleashing their fury on spotted lanternflies, and what should we be doing instead?

Spotted lanternflies have not lived up to their foreshadowed reputation. In early 2022, Penn State published an article dispelling the myths that had grown up around them, advising readers that lanternflies rarely kill trees. In August, researchers there published results showing that so far, the insects have not caused nearly as much damage to hardwood trees as once feared. " ... [I]n a natural setting where the insects are constantly on the move," they wrote, "we would not expect significant negative impacts on forest or ornamental trees."

Other entomologists and ecologists have admitted as much too, yet in a recent New York Times piece, they still defended their mass-squishing campaigns. Cornell University entomologist Daniel Gilrein noted there was scant evidence that stomping would reduce populations in any significant way, wrote Times reporter Claire Fahy, "but he noted that the communal effort 'helps engage the public' and leads people to feel 'somewhat empowered.' ”

Serenity Ridge Natural Burial Cemetery & Arboretum Wildflower Planting and Invasive Plant Removal

June 10th, 2023

Back in June, several members of the Greater Patapsco Community Association (GPCA) and broader Baltimore County community assisted with an environmental stewardship event in partnership with Patapsco Heritage Greenway and Serenity Ridge Natural Burial Cemetery and Arboretum. The natural burial cemetery is the first of its kind in the state and opened in December. It is located in Windsor Mill, a neighborhood of the GPCA.

Together, 18 volunteers contributed a total of 54 hours on Saturday, June 10th. Participants assisted with two projects: 1) installing a native wildflower garden at the front of the cemetery for families to cut fresh flowers for graves of loved ones, and 2) removal of invasive plants farther back on the property along the entrance to new trailheads for visitors.

The cemetery is free and open to the public Monday through Friday from 9am-5pm. With help from volunteers, this family-owned natural burial site hopes to be a place where community members can enjoy the tranquility of its 80+ acres through rolling meadows, woods, wildflower gardens, and hiking trails.

Getting to this point was not an easy task, as volunteers can attest from the June 10th event. Removing invasive plants is a challenge. These species overwhelm habitat and take over native species. While individual plants may be easy to pull and uproot, the collective number of plants is a task for an army. With the dedication of volunteers, slowly but surely we will provide more sunlight, space, and habitat for native plants to thrive.

The soil where the group installed the wildflower garden was riddled with rocks and gravel, likely remnants from former uses of the site. Thanks to Bob Teller and his gas-powered tiller, we were able to soften the earth in preparation for seed. After clearing weeds, rocks, and turning over as much of the first layer of soil as possible, volunteers spread a mix of native wildflower seed and covered the seed with compost and straw to promote growth and prevent seed from blowing away. The garden was watered a couple days later with the help of mother nature.

Patapsco Heritage Greenway staff recently visited Serenity Ridge to check on these projects. As with all invasive species, they require constant management and mitigation. Much to our surprise, the wildflower garden is flourishing (See picture on the top of this article)!. All who attended the initial event were skeptical if the seed would be able to take root in such compact soil, but nature prevailed. Our sincere thanks to everyone involved in this effort on a very hot, summer day!

PHG will be assisting with more stewardship efforts at Serenity Ridge this upcoming fall and spring. You can find a list of volunteer opportunities, to include events at Serenity Ridge, on the Patapsco Heritage Greenway website calendar or Eventbrite page.

IN CONCERT, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 2023, 7 p.m.

The Baltimore Mandolin Orchestra (BMO) will be performing a variety of music in concert at St. Alphonsus Rodriguez Catholic Church, 10800 Old Court Rd, Woodstock, MD 21163. A free-will offering will be taken. The aim of the original BMO, as stated in the program for one of its first concerts back in 1925, was "to play the best Mandolin Music and further the cause of fretted instruments." Present members of the ensemble strive to uphold that goal to this day. Come and enjoy a different concert!

Granite Historical Society Fall Hike

The Granite Historical Society is planning a Fall Hike on Sunday, October 22nd. We will meet in the parking lot of the Granite Presbyterian Church at 1PM. We've applied for permission with DNR to park cars inside the access gate at Alberton Rd and then we'll walk along the Alberton Road Trail to the Daniels Dam, a distance of about a mile and a half. This is the last remaining dam on the Main Falls of the Patapsco. Along the way we'll visit the Upton house, a really neat historic stone and frame house built by Joshua Upton in 1851. We'll also visit the ruins and graveyard of St Stanislaus Church, a mission church established by the Woodstock College Jesuits in the 1870s. Unfortunately, the church was struck by lightning and burned in 1926 and never replaced.

As always, if you are interested please RSVP by email to info@granitehistoricalsociety.org or to John Brantley at treasurer@granitehistoricalsociety.org. Alternatively, express your interest to one of the GHS officers.
